Research tells us that the average person thinks about 50,000 thoughts every day. The truth is that each one of those thought moves us either toward our God-given potential or away from it. Sadly, we live in a society bent on highlighting what is wrong with just about everything. As a result, we have grown accustomed to viewing the world and ourselves through a lens of negativity. In Philippians 4:8, the apostle Paul challenges us to seek out and dwell on the positives in our lives. When used as a filter, Philippians 4:8 is the true secret to vibrant health, satisfying relationships, lasting fulfillment and an incredible relationship with God!

4:8 Questions

Your Friend’s Friend’s Friend’s Life Depends On It

The challenge from today’s message is to put the following questions in a place where you and your family can see them throughout the week. However, we don’t just want you to place them somewhere you can see them, we want to encourage you to make it a point to answer them with your family, friends and coworkers.

1. What are four family memories that I enjoy dwelling upon?
2. Who are the people I love the most and how does that make me feel?
3. What am I most grateful for about my health?
4. What are my top four lifetime accomplishments?
5. What are four of my most recent victories?
6. Who could I encourage and build up in the next 48 hours?
7. Who are the people who tend to bring out the best in me?

Homework Questions

1. Is there any company corrupting your good character?
2. Identify how your present company or friendships impacts your good character.
3. If you have difficulty with question #2, are you building your good character?
